Due to a few cruise participants who feel they can do what they want, this posting is to make it as public record what the reason and the policy is for having traffic cones placed in the parking lot during the cruises at McDonald's on Racetrack Road in Meadowlands, PA. The reason for the cones is to keep the roadway clear for McDonald's customers of all vehicle sizes, and for unrestricted access for emergency vehicles. We as visitors to McDonald's have to allow their customers through the lot. If we impede the customers going to McDonald's, we will lose the privilege of using their lot for our cruises. If the cones are in your way, contact one of the board members to move them for you temporarily - this does not mean to move them out into the roadway to accommodate parking of vehicles. If you move the cones on your own, you will be told about it; 2nd time you will be asked to leave. Any threats of personal harm to board members for enforcing the rules also means you will be asked to leave our cruise. This is a family activity, and there is no need or reason for violence at any time. These cruises are held to promote the automobile hobby, and for everyone's enjoyment. We don't have many rules, but the ones we do have are there for a reason and will be enforced. Thank you for your understanding in this matter, and let's have a good time from here on out.

Bob

7 Internet Tips for Selling a Classic Car

When selling a classic car for a good price, you need to follow a few guidelines. Classic cars that have been well maintained generally sell at a higher price. As a used car seller, you have many options to choose from, when it comes to marketing your vehicle for sale. Using the following tips for making your selling experience more efficient and lucrative.

- Before putting the vehicle up for sale, have it inspected by the mechanic. If there are minor repairs that need to be done to increase the overall appeal of the car, complete these repairs and quote a higher selling price
- Do your research well and find out what other buyers are paying for the similar type of vehicle you possess. The classic car resale value is higher if much of the originality of the vehicle is maintained. Avoid replacing too many parts if you plan to sell your classic car
- The key to selling the car quickly is to advertise appropriately. Contact car dealers in your area to find out if they're interested in purchasing your vehicle. Post an ad in your local newspaper or bulletin. Ask friends and family to spread the word for you. When you're posting an ad on the Internet, make sure you upload different pictures of the car (both interior and exterior), to draw the attention of potential customers
- When potential buyers get in touch with you, respond to them promptly and offer to show them the vehicle at a convenient time and location
- Quote a price that's suited to the type of classic car you're selling. To negotiate a good deal, start with a price that's slightly higher than the actual value of the vehicle
- The easiest way to sell your antique car quickly is to use the Internet. Most car buyers look for good car deals online. While some websites ask you to pay a monthly fee to advertise your car for sale, you could use craigslist or connect with people through online classic car forums for free
- You could also ask a dealer to sell your classic car on your behalf. Although the dealer will charge you a certain percentage of the sale price, your vehicle will be advertised on the dealer's lot. This is the easiest way to attract potential buyers
